AUGUST 2019

We the church have many responsibilities: worship, mission, discipleship, evangelism, stewardship, pastoral care, hospitality, mercy and justice, among other crucial ministries. But a crucial mission of the church is mentoring—passing the torch and the baton to the next generation. The church is always one generation away from extinction. Just as our parents did for us, we have a challenge to share and show the good news to each new generation in a way that is both winsome and faithful to God. Immanuel, we are in an Esther Moment — "for such a time as this." Each generation is different, but without a doubt, due to advancements in technology and the advent of social media, our young people live in an entirely different universe than we grew up in. They speak a different language than us. Do you know these acronyms? KMS, SMH, FML, FOMO/JOMO, IRL?<sup>1</sup> Although the new generations seem foreign to us, let's face it—if all the millennials and iGens in the world stopped helping us with our various technological problems, the USA would grind to a screeching halt!

I am committed to reaching all generations—including millennials and iGens. You aren't going to find this pastor making jokes about them. I want to know them, understand them more, hear their stories, learn from them, and make younger generations feel welcome and involved. I've been in youth ministry for most of my life: in youth group as a middle school and high school student, a volunteer in college, a youth intern in seminary, a youth pastor at two churches as a minister, and led the youth group for six years at Immanuel. While we continue our search for staffing to reach young people, I'll be temporarily stepping back into youth ministry at Immanuel. I'm excited about this—"the itch is back." Being a chaplain for a week this summer at Montlure Camp invigorated my soul. I had so much fun singing with the young people and trying to get into their world (playing gaga ball) and communicating the good news of Jesus Christ in a way that they could resonate with. In fact, these young people taught me about Jesus and faith with their insightful questions and astute responses to my questions. Jesus knew what he was talking about when:

He called a child, whom he put among them, <sup>3</sup> and said, "Truly I tell you, unless you change and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. <sup>4</sup> Whoever becomes humble like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. <sup>5</sup> Whoever welcomes one such child in my name welcomes me. (Matthew 18:2-5)

Immanuel, join me in learning about, celebrating, welcoming, mentoring, and learning from the millennials and iGens. They're not only the future church, they are the present church. We will have a parent's youth group informational meeting on Sunday, August 25th at 9:45 am in the Youth Room in Knox Hall. I'm excited about the upcoming year—see you there!

TTYL, Pastor John

NEW LIFE CHALLENGES

News in the Missions World

Facing Refugees

"At night we shared with folk at the CAME shelter", so reported Jodi Beckham in a recent note from Louisville, upon visiting in Agua Prieta, Mexico. "We played with the children and met a lot of people who had travelled quite far to end up there.

How could I think they were bad people? I was born to a middle/upper-class family in America. I never had to fear for my safety in my own home. I never had to sell everything I had to go into a complete unknown...

While some from our church were concerned with our safety traveling to Agua Prieta, I never felt unsafe. I felt the love and kindness of the people around us. They welcomed us, served us, fed us, taught us, prayed with us. It was privilege to get to know them.

I keep them in my prayers, the asylum seekers, the migrants, the women of Douglaprieta Trabaja, the staff at Frontera de Cristo, these who work with CRREDA, the volunteers of CAME, those who came with their children and many others seeking a better life. They changed me... hopefully we are better because of the time we spent on the border."

Blessings,
Bob Seel

CASA MARIA MINISTRY

Immanuel is one of many organizations in Tucson who regularly help to feed the hungry through donations of sack lunches to the Casa Maria Free Kitchen. Located in the Santa Rita neighborhood of South Tucson, Casa Maria feeds nearly 1,000 people every day—local residents and homeless alike. Immanuel's commitment is for 500 lunches every 4 weeks. Immanuel members prepare 350 lunches at home, and our Deacons prepare 150 at church.

Want to help make sandwiches? Each lunch should contain two meat and cheese sandwiches (please use only butter/margarine—no mayo, mustard, lettuce or tomato), a piece of fruit (such as a banana, peach, pear, or orange), and a dessert (2 cookies, 1 brownie, etc.). Please bring your sack lunches to the church between 8:00am and 9:00am. The Casa Maria team leaves promptly at 9:00am.

Immanuel Sanctuary Choir Honor Roll

We are so grateful for the commitment and dedication of all those who sing in our choir and lead congregational singing in worship each Sunday. Although there are usually somewhere between 60 and 70 people on the choir roster at any given time, we rarely see them all together at the same time—for obvious reasons such as travel or illness.

But there's another equally special group—those faithful singers who have graced our choir loft in the past. These folks have sung in Immanuel's Sanctuary Choir but are no longer with us for various reasons—they may sing only occasionally, or they may have moved, or perhaps they're now attending another church. Many have died. We thought you might like to see their names and remember each person who gave their time, their heart, and their voice. To remember them is to honor them. Here, then, is the choir "Honor Roll."

MONTLURE CAMP 2019

By Will Price

Montlure was a tremendous experience for the campers and staff alike! The overarching theme for this year was "Unplug to Connect (Introduction to the Daily Sabbath Practices)" with the principal scripture focus drawn from Matthew 11:28-12:21. The program of study was further partitioned into daily themes of Hospitality, Prayer, Retreat, Storytelling, and Service. The curriculum for this iteration of Montlure held special significance in that the content was written and planned entirely by the Montlure Team.

A typical day at camp involved a 7:30am wake up call for the campers signaled by ringing the bell atop Fred's Beanery that was followed by the necessary obligation of kitchen patrol, or KP, and then some really fun staff-led calisthenics called "Energizer," which have become quite legendary. Everyone was usually pretty hungry at that juncture and we would be treated to a very yummy breakfast that followed a prayer of thanks from one of the campers.

After the meal and plenty of memorable conversation, the campers would sign up for daily activities and then make their way to the open-air ramada for Morning Chapel. There they would engage in worship by singing such songs as "Come Thou Fount," "10,000 Reasons," & "Cornerstone" and then a teaching of the daily theme from the chaplain. Personal devotions would then ensue where the campers would reflect on the biblical principles that they had just learned.

A couple of sessions of fun activities would soon follow to keep the busy schedule moving along, which inevitably gave way to, you guessed it, more KP. Not to worry, a very tasty lunch was on the other end of that duty and the overwhelming consensus was that the food this year was particularly delicious! A very entertaining mail call was incorporated toward the conclusion of lunch as was the oft-dreaded announcement of cabin inspection scores. They were usually better than expected although some campers, who will remain unnamed, discovered that shoving all their personal effects under the bunk did not exactly meet with the expectation of "straightening one's cabin." It was also rumored that a chaplain and worship leader, who will also remain unnamed, were quite relieved that their bunkhouse was never subjected to that same level of scrutiny.

By this time, the campers were very much in need of a little down time, which was accommodated in the form of Feet-On-Bed or FOB. This respite would then be followed by the opening of the "Camp Store" where ample supplies of sugar were made available to keep the campers fueled for the eagerly anticipated "Group Games" segment at which time highly competitive matches of Gaga Ball, Nine Square, Tether Ball, and other games were on full display. The camaraderie fostered by these activities provided a perfect segue into the Small Group session where the campers would further discuss the daily theme and its application. Following yet another occurrence of KP, everyone would gather 'round the tables for a scrumptious dinner and then retreat to their cabins in preparation for the adrenaline-charged Night Game, such as Underground Church.

As the evening wore on and the temperature dropped, everyone would then circle around the fire pit for Twilight Chapel, singing songs such as "I Love You Lord" & "Sanctuary" and then reflect again on the daily teaching with a brief anecdotal summary from the chaplain. With the day's events now drawing to a close, the campers would then return to their cabins for the evening routine of preparing for Lights Out as the stars overhead simultaneously prepared for Lights On.
